This event is an important follow-up to the splendid and well supported historical outing conducted by Plunkett Campbell in May 2008. On this year's outing, the emphasis will be on the all-embracing linen and cloth manufacturing premises that flourished along the Upper Bann for two and half centuries.

Everybody welcome to meet at Moyallen Quaker

The Traditional May Altar
Like the days of yore there were the banners of the May Altar made from white and brown card. These banners bore the names of the children who were chosen to be the May Queens and Kings. The banners were decorated with flowers and ribbons. The children were dressed in their best clothes and the banners were carried to the altar in a procession.
The children were then crowned and the banners were placed on the altar.

To make a traditional May Altar place a banner of Our Lady's royal name and make a list of the names of the children who were chosen to be the May Queens and Kings. The banners were decorated with flowers and ribbons and the children were dressed in their best clothes.
