

SCHOOLBOY JONJO HEUERMAN TAKES ON NORTHERN IRELAND WALK

FOR CANCER RESEARCH UK

AS HE SMASHES £110,000 MILESTONE

LAURENCETOWN - BELFAST

Young Jonjo left Laurencetown on Thursday morning for his Charity Walk to Milltown cemetery in Belfast. A number of locals gathered to wish Jonjo and his family well as they set off on a glorious morning.

To date Jonjo has raised £110,000 for Cancer Research in memory of his great grandparents, John Lawell who is buried in Laurencetown and his great grandmother, Margaret Blong who is buried in Belfast.

Jonjo isn't the only fundrasier in the family. His sister Megan, who is joining him on the walk, has also raised £10,000 through cake sales and other fundraising events. Their mother, Donna, and other family members are also walking with Jonjo.

As Fr. Powell is away at the moment, Fr Stephen Crossan very kindly came along, at Donna's request, to bless Jonjo and the family before they left.

We wish him well and Donna has promised to let us know how they get on. (see below for Jonjo finishing his walk)
